

Country Reports

The most reliable source of country intelligence on nearly 200 countries

Country Reports cover nearly 200 countries and help you keep pace with how national, regional and global events will affect your business in the short to medium term.

Each report examines and explains in depth the issues shaping the countries in which you operate: the political scene, economic policy, domestic economy, sectoral trends, and foreign trade and payments. Detailed two-year forecasts complement the analysis and pinpoint political and economic developments and trends.

How we produce Country Reports

- What are the sources of data used in Country Reports?

From international or national sources, selected by our analysts as the most reliable currently available. Our analysts subject the data to exacting scrutiny to ensure their accuracy and validity. All forecasts are unique to the Economist Intelligence Unit.

- Who writes Country Reports?

The reports are produced by 130 in-house country analysts. They draw on the input of the Economist Intelligence Unit's global network of more than 600 contributors. Our experts are skilled in selecting and interpreting data and information from primary sources to provide reliable economic and political analysis, ensuring that you get an unbiased and accurate picture of the countries that interest you.

- Rigorous validation and forecasting

Every fact and statistic is checked for accuracy and consistency before publication. We add value to the data by interpreting what developments mean for business and by producing rigorous two-year forecasts. Each forecast is developed with reference to our highly regarded assumptions for the global economy.
